A GREAT LITERARY WORK.

THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPAEDIA.

The seventh volume of the revised edition of The American Cyclopaedia has just been published, and the work, which will consist, like the old edition, of sixteen volumes in all, is thus nearly half completed. It may be fairly said, indeed, that much more than half the labor of its edition and publication is over, for not only is the amount of matter that is now virtually finished much greater than that already put into the hands of the subscribers, but the organization and arrangement of work, always the most difficult parts of so great a literary task, have long been so thoroughly in order that all the complicated machinery involved in the undertaking runs with the ease and rapidity of perfect routine.

It is, of course, a very bare platitude to say that the public of readers do not appreciate the enormous quantity of earnest, unremitting, and disciplined labor that contributes toward the great result of such a book as this. The rare combination of sound general judgment with unerring accuracy in detail, the trained power of concise clearness, and the endless care and vigilance that are necessities in the editorship of these volumes, are easy qualities to forget in looking at the work that apparently runs on so smoothly from beginning to end. But let any man of ordinary habit of thought sit down to the statement of any subject, even that with which he is best acquainted; let him even be surrounded by all the existing sources of information on the matter; let him feel, with a true sense of his responsibility, that if he makes a mistake, or give rise to a misunderstanding, he is proper gating an error among hundreds of thousands of readers; and then let him try to state his facts with absolute accuracy, and so that they shall be intelligible to all kinds and conditions of men. He will rise from his task a much sadder and wiser man; and his esteem for those who can and must do this over and over again will be multiplied many times.

In the earlier stages of this great literary undertaking, several descriptions, more or less correct, were published in various newspapers, here and elsewhere, of the manner in which the work was organized and conducted, the division of labor among the members of the staff, and so on. One of these descriptions was republished in the Journal, and we do not intend to go over the same ground. But if that paper and the others published early in the publication of the Cyclopaedia gave some idea of the greatness of the task involved in its rewriting, a review of what has now been accomplished will certainly convey a still better conception both of the labor and its practical results.

Let us review what has been done down to the end of the seventh or last published volume; and first, by way of gaining some merely practical notion of the actual work involved, let us look at the purely mechanical side. The revision of the Cyclopaedia, at the time when the literary work on the seventh volume had been practically completed at the editorial office, had been going on for a little more than two years. The beginning of this period, however, it had been necessary to consume in that preparation which constituted one of the most important portions of the work. It was necessary, first, to examine thoroughly the old edition, and to annotate it throughout carefully and accurately with directions for the guidance of the revisers; second, to fully organize and arrange the system on which the work was to be done; to mark out the divisions of labor, and to make arrangements with special writers; and, finally, to get all the complicated machinery of the actual office-labor into the running order of an accurate and smooth routine.

Counting the whole two years, however, on six hundred working-days, as fairly consumed in the revision, rewriting, and complete preparation of the seven volumes or five thousand six hundred pages thus far published, and we have a result that sufficiently shows the earnestness and energy with which the work has been pushed. For, according to this minimum statement, the Cyclopaedia office, with a staff of editors about equal in number to that of an ordinary newspaper, has completed and put through all the various processes, and sent to press every day, an average amount equal to ten columns of editorial matter in one of the large metropolitan daily journals. And it must be constantly remembered that this is not of such material as that of which newspaper leaders are made up; that it is composed entirely of statements of fact requiring the most accurate investigation, and the most studied clearness of expression, that its composition requires the widest reading, and research of the most painstaking kind, that, when once written, it passes through six different revisions, and through the various printing stages of "galley" proofs, page proofs, and proofs from the plates, that illustrations, maps, and diagrams have to be made and arranged for it with the greatest care. Bearing these things in mind, even the mechanical statement of the amount of labor done indicates an activity and energy that is little understood by the majority of readers.

This statement is, of course, merely interesting as showing the perfection of the routine in which the work is carried on. It is only by a review of the intellectual results of so much labor that we can fairly see what it is worth; and to make such a review justly would, of course, be far beyond the power of a brief notice. It is only a most general glance that was can give here at the contents of the book thus far, but, to one or two points and leading characteristics of the work we may at least call attention.

Ordinarily, in works of this nature, the reputation of a few great leaders in different branches of learning is left to "carry" the book, and under the cover of a few famous names and brilliant articles is concealed the fact that the general information, conveyed in minor articles in which specialists have no share, is faulty and careless. A vast amount of error may be floated by the addition of one or two papers by writers whose names are security for their own work only.

The special point to which we would call attention in the The American Cyclopaedia is the entire absence of any attempt to do this. Perhaps the greatest merit of this book is its remarkable fullness and accuracy in what are called little things—which are really the subjects on which a cyclopaedia is consulted a hundred times when it would be only once referred to for a complicated special question. When its staff of specialists—leading scientific men, theologians, and others—includes the very foremost names, its hundreds of general articles, biographies, historical and geographical titles, and so on, are handled in the office with an accurate care that almost defies criticism. The bringing into a literary undertaking of the chief men in their several specialties, is a very great triumph for editors and publishers, but the carrying of accuracy and perpetual vigilance into the minutest details of work that has been too often left to careless hands, seems to us something of which they have a right to be at least equally proud.

The consistent way in which the plan of the work, as announced in the preface, is carried out; the excellent fullness with which articles on kindred subjects supplement one another; the use which is made of every possible opportunity to bring down the facts to the very time of publication; and the entire absence of expression of personal opinion or partiality in any form—these are results which have already been noted by many writers during the progress of this new edition, but they are remarkable enough and sufficiently unusual to deserve another mention, and indeed many more.

The seven volumes extend from the letter A to the letter G (A to Glascock). A list of even the more prominent articles they contain would be impossible here, but there are several of very marked and peculiar value.—Such are, from the acknowledged authority of their writers, Dr. Shea's articles on the American Indians, and on the various tribes under their different titles; Mr. Squier's "American Antiquities;" Professor Whitney's "Aryan Race and Language," and "Languages of Africa," etc; Mr. Henry Carey Baird's article on "Banks," Count Pourtales' papers on "The Atlantic Ocean, Dredging," etc, etc., Mr. Proctor's "Astronomy" and astronomical articles; Professor Youmans's "Atomic Theory," "Evolution," "Correlation and Conservation of forces;" Dr. Flint's and Dr. Dalton's medical and surgical articles; Consul-General Seward's article on "China," and the article on Chinese language and literature prepared by Dr. Wylie, with the revision of Dr. S. Wells Williams, thus combining the work of two of the greatest sinologues, Professor Cleveland Abbe's meteorological articles, and the botanical articles of Professor Thurber. More it is impossible to specify in a space so limited; but if names were needed to bear testimony to the merits of the book thus far, they could be given in much greater number. Fortunately, it is not upon these alone that the work, like so many, depends; each volume, in the minutest detail of its contents, is its own best commendation.—Appleton's Journal.

MT DESERT.

A Bar Harbor correspondent writes to the Boston Advertiser as follows

I should say that the additions to the old hotels, including the so-called cottage at the Rodic House, would accommodate at least three hundred more people than could find lodgings here last summer, and though there has been but little gayety and but few people as yet, proofs are abundant that the flannel-shirt period of Mt. Desert is nearly over.—Not that this is caused by the increased number directly, but the large amount of money lately brought here, and the fear of losing their patrons on account of the typhoid scare of last season, have stimulated the hotel keepers to great exertions, and the result is visible to the eye in the long, box-shaped sea-drains along the shore; the noble aqueduct to bring fresh water from Eagle Lake, which is said to resemble similar works in the Campagna; and last, but by no means least, in the dulcet tones of our two brass bands which discourse sweet music, both sacred and profane, during the evening hours. In making the tour of the hotels, the old visitor is astonished at the extensive dancing-room of the Rockaway and the handsomely frescoed and furnished parlor of the Atlantic.—The delightful piazza of the former house is now three times its former length, and the comparatively large number of visitors at these two houses shows that their (for Bar Harbor, magnificent accommodations are duly appreciated. A pleasant feature in the landscape from the Schooner Head road is the extensive "cottage," now rising, of Mr. H. M. Prentiss of Bangor. Like the Lyon House on Frenchman's Bay, it is no cottage, but a large and elegant villa. Of social news there is as yet none, but I may mention among those recently arrived, Mrs. Seth Sprague, Professor Lovering and family and Professor Trowbridge at the Rockaway, Mrs. Olive Hastings of Cambridge at Rodick's, Miss Allyn and Miss C. M. Read of the same town at the Hamor, and Mr. and Mrs. Greenough of Boston, at the Rockaway. The Bay View, usually the headquarters of the Boston and Cambridge people, is almost deserted, affording as yet none of the scenes of revelry and mirth for which it has hitherto been noted. The rumor that the price of board has been raised is, I am happy to say, unfounded.

THE BOY FIEND. The Boston Journal says of the cold blooded wretch known as the boy Jesse Pomeroy, who has just confessed the murder of little Katie Curran:

He is evidently a physiological monstrosity, and is possessed of a mania for cruelty, for which, perhaps, he may not be responsible. Persons interested in the transmission of peculiarities from mother to child may be interested to know that Mrs. Pomeroy, his mother, says that shortly before the boy Jesse was born she had an irresistible desire to visit the slaughter-house where her husband was at work, and watch the slaughter of sheep and cattle generally. She also states that after the boy was born, and as soon as he was old enough, he was constantly sticking knives into pieces of meat and manifested a habit generally destructive.

A BEASTLY EXHIBITION. It is difficult to believe that such degradation can exist in a civilized country as that indicated by a recent occurrence at Hanley, England. It was an encounter between a bull dog and a man, the sickening details of which were given with necessary minuteness in the London Telegraph, that paper having had a "commissioner" present at the scene. The man met the dog while on all fours, and leaped and snarled with as much ferocity as his canine antagonist, making himself as thoroughly a beast as possible. His method of fighting was to strike the dog with his fists. After eleven rounds the two-legged brute was the victor. The crowd drawn together by the fight was evidently as low in the scale of humanity as can possibly be conceived, and manifested the most revolting animal ferocity, cheering by turns the dog and scarcely more intelligent brute, as each in turn promised to be the conqueror. That such an occurrence should have been permitted seems a disgrace to the people among whom it came off, and that it was not done in the dark appears evident from the fact of a newspaper commissioner having been present. Compared with such a scene the gladiatorial combats of the ancient arena would be eminently respectable.

Advices from India represent that there are fears that cholera has broken out among the fifty thousand pilgrims assembled in Poorie for the Juggernaut festival. The floods in the north have subsided. The southern districts are still without rain, or the little that has fallen in some sections has done no good

A N. Y Tribune reporter has interviewed Mr. Cleaveland, who says Mrs. Tilton and Mr Beecher are preparing a statement which will be submitted to the Committee Thursday, and which will satisfactorily explain all the correspondence between them, and all other matters contained in Mr. Tilton's statement.

"I've got 'em again!" shouted a Mississippi boatman when first the comet burst upon his bewildered vision. And then he wildly proceeded to relate his experience. "Snakes I've had before, and now the stars have got tails on 'em. I'm a dead man!" So much for knowing too much of whiskey and too little of astronomy!

After all the Democratic promises to repeal the prohibitory law in New Hampshire, here is the result, as summarized by Foster's Democrat, published at Dover:

A Republican Legislature enacted the prohibitory law, and now a Democratic Legislature has adopted it as its own by refusing to enact the license and local option principle in its stead. This ought to settle the policy of our State and put this vexed question out of our party politics. We shall not disturb the settlement, and anybody who attempts to do so should be considered as no real friend of the Democratic party. The representative sovereignty of the State in Democratic hands has spoken, and let all the people say Amen.

Traverse City, Michigan, has taken the sentiments of its women on the woman suffrage question. Forty-two want to vote on all matters, ninety five would prefer not, and sixty-six have no opinion. On questions of temperance or moral or political reform, however, 130 would vote if the law allowed them, thirty-four would not, and fifty-three are indifferent.

A FLAG WANTED. That is a mere matter of sentiment. The old lady will hardly feel hurt if the daughter selects an entirely new pattern, and Acadia had better act accordingly. THE ANSWER

Mr. Beecher has spoken, and his utterance is an absolute and unequivocal denial of the charges preferred. He has met the assault promptly as his friends and the friends of morality hoped he would meet it, and with a sweeping contradiction of Tilton's accusations declares his purpose to refute in detail the whole monstrous indictment against him.

The wife, who has been branded as infamous by a husband who, at the same time, professed reverence for her Christian character has also spoken, and she, too, hurls back the imputations with a solemn oath to her innocence, and a scathing recital of her wrongs.

These brief and comprehensive statements will be accepted by the public as a bar to the rendering of judgment until the indictment which Tilton has spent years in preparing, and which was thrown before the public by a person to his interest, can be met, point by point and circumstance by circumstance. The case is now before the public tribunal, and interests reaching far beyond the atmosphere of scandal demand that the whole truth [illegible] laid bare. In Mr. Beecher's determination to face the ordeal without shrinking, he has freshly inspired that confidence which will attend his efforts to throw off the frightful burden of accusation that has been cast upon him.

THE NATIONAL CREDIT

[From the New York Times.]

It may be said that people abroad should learn to distinguish between good and bad securities, and it would be decidedly to their advantage if they could do this. But it must be remembered that we on the spot cannot always accomplish that object, and capitalists at a distance are far more unfavorably situated. In the same way people abroad cannot always be expected to apportion the just degree of weight to proposals or schemes which directly affect the national credit. They do not know precisely of how much or how little importance it is that a State convention of a political party should declare itself in favor of partial repudiation. They only see that it is possible to get such a proposal of this kind placed before the people of the United States, by a section of one of the great parties of the day, and since capital is very timid, they hesitate to invest money for themselves or their children, even in United States securities.

These are the evils produced by such resolutions as these, recently incorporated by the Democrats of Indiana in their platform

Resolved, First—That we are in favor of the redemption of the five-twenty bonds in greenbacks, according to the laws under which they were issued.

Second, That we are in favor of the repeal of the law of March, 1869, which assumed to construe the law so as to make such bonds payable exclusively in gold

That we do not exaggerate the effect of such resolutions as these on the foreign markets is well known to all our commercial readers—especially to those who have intimate dealings with houses in Frankfort or London. After the publication of every such platform as this, our leading bankers or brokers receive letters from their foreign correspondents, describing the distrust and alarm which have been occasioned. And beyond all doubt these feelings would be aggravated tenfold if the Democrats came into power. Now they are on their good behavior—they tread cautiously, for fear of falling into some pit—and yet they keep up a perpetual dribble of talk about paying the five-twenty bonds in greenbacks instead of gold. The Democratic party is identified with this precious scheme—not that all members of the Democratic party approve of it, but quite enough do approve of it to render it one of the articles of faith popularly associated with the party. If that party recovered power, we should find that the "greenback instead-of-gold" men were much more numerous and powerful than most of us at present suppose. It would become a serious question whether the leaders could control them, even if they wished to do so. Gov. Hendricks may not be in favor of this plan, but he had not sufficient influence to prevent it being introduced into the platform of his State. And yet there is no Democrat in any State more influential with his party than Gov. Hendricks is in Indiana. His friends and followers would evidently insist on partial repudiation in spite of him. How, then, would it fare with the weaker men or organs, accustomed as they are to turning round at every puff of wind as easily as a weather-cock? Their resistance would not be very determined or prolonged. The Indiana Democrats only demand what has been demanded by their party before in other States. And what people here and abroad thoroughly understand is that it is a demand to which the Republican party, at least, will never yield, that if repudiation in any form is to be practiced, it will not be under the advice and sanction of the party which saved the country during the rebellion, and which [illegible] the national credit sustained [illegible] the long and desperate war to which that rebellion gave rise. That is one reason why the people will continue to prefer the Republican to the Democratic party.

A Paris despatch says that the Left have agreed, if M. Perier's bill is rejected, to introduce a motion to the following effect: That the Assembly, regarding the present state of parties an insurmountable obstacle to the constitution of a definite government, be dissolved on the 15th of August; that a general election for members of the Assembly be held on the 5th of September, and that the Assembly meet on the 28th of September, 1874. It is believed that the motion already has the support of three hundred deputies. The Bonapartists are undecided whether to vote for it or not.

DAM AT TREAT'S FALLS.

BANGOR July 23, 1874.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier:

Continuing our reminiscences, we will note the efforts made in 1865-6, to consummate the great enterprise authorized by the Mill Dam charter of 1828.

The public effort of 1865 was commenced by a circular of Geo. W. Pickering and others, recommending a plan of raising funds, based upon the rise in the price of lands, which was justly expected to follow the success of the undertaking. The plan had undoubted merits, and may perhaps be revived and upon a larger scale. It is a conversion of a future advance in property into present means, and raises money without taxing any interest or any person.

The plan in detail of 1865, was to divide a tract of forty acres on Hebborn hill, into lots, to be appraised in the aggregate at forty thousand dollars, or about quadruple the then value of them, but not greater certainly, and probably not so great as the value of them would become by the construction of a dam. The friends of the enterprise were then to be asked to enter into legally obligatory contracts to purchase the lots at the appraised prices, as soon as the dam should be completed.

The circular of George W. Pickering and others, endorsing this plan, was dated Aug. 25, 1865, and signed by Mr. Pickering, Sam'l H. Dale, Geo. K. Jewett, W. H. Smith, S. H. Blake, R. S. Prescott, John E. Godfrey, L. R. Clark, W. F. Wingate, A. B. Hollowell, John Appleton, A. Sanborn, Isaac M. Bragg, J. C. Mitchell, D. M. Howard, J. H. Bowler, Calvin Dwinel, J. S. Chadwick, D. Worcester, Geo. W. Ladd, A. G. Wakefield, John A. Peters and J. Wingate Carr.

The general tenor of this circular is indicated by the following extract from it:—

"There has been for some time past, a general feeling in this community, that in order to the future growth and prosperity of Bangor and Penobscot County, other industrial enterprises than such as are connected with the lumbering interest, must be resorted to. Hitherto that has been our chief reliance, and, until within a few years, has mainly contributed to the growth of our county, and city. There is a period beyond which one kind of business cannot alone be relied upon to build up a city, and here that period has been reached. We must now turn our attention to some other resource, or, from our position as second city in the State, we shall soon fall into the third rank. To what does Lewiston owe its prosperity? All know that it is manufacturing.

We have now a prospect of a railway to the Aroostook and New Brunswick, and Bangor must make a vigorous effort to accomplish that enterprise at an early day. A dam across the Penobscot river at Treat's Falls has been a favorite project in this community for several years, the impression being that it will lead to general manufacturing, and inevitably cause a rapid increase of population and wealth. We believe this impression to be correct."

Mr. Pickering and his associates in this circular, proved their faith by their works, by subscriptions for the proposed purchase of lots, for the benefit of the dam. Nor was the circular less liberally responded to by the public, all the lots being promptly contracted for. The subscription for them, is the best evidence of the wide spread feeling in this community in favor of the dam enterprise, and the whole list would be copied, except that it would be too great a trespass on your columns.

Among the subscribers, in addition to the signers of the circular, were John S. Patten, M. Schwartz, James S. Rowe, Hugh Ross, C. C. Prescott, C. B. Sandford, H. E. Prentiss, D. Bugbee, Wm. Margesson, Robert Perkins, J. F. Rawson, James Healey, E. S. Coe, Job Collett, C. B. & W. E. Plummer, S. P. Bradbury, Wm. H. Wheeler, John Trickey, James Tobin, Lemuel Nash, Charles Hale, J. G. COLBY UNIVERSITY

ACTION OF THE BOARDS—THE DINNER, ETC.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Wednesday, Chapin Humphrey, Esq., of Bangor, was chosen a member of the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel Garnsey of this city. Measures were adopted looking to a higher grade of scholarship, appropriations made for various departments, and regulations adopted for combining oral with written exercises.

THE DINNER.

The dinner was finely served in Memorial Hall, Hon. M. H. Dunnell, of Minnesota, presiding. He introduced President Robins, who eloquently acknowledged the generous and cordial support extended him during his connection with the college by the trustees faculty and alumni, and spoke of the new departure of the college in appropriate terms.

Remarks appropriate to the occasion and complimentary to the institution were also made by Gov. Dingley, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Speaker Blaine, Rev. Dr. Champlain, E. P. Weston, Hon. J. H. Drummond, Prof. Matthews of Chicago and others. A correspondent of the Boston Journal says:—

Some of the speeches were unusually felicitous, and the entrance of Senator Hamlin and Speaker Blaine just before the speech-making commenced was hailed with expressions of delight.

The Junior prize of $15 was awarded to L. C. Cornish, of Winslow, second, of $10 to G. W. Hall, of Hermon.

Ex-Gov. Coburn gives $300 yearly for the establishment of five scholarships for poor and meritorious students, and Senator Hamlin testified his interest in the University by instituting four prizes amounting to $30 annually; two for the gentlemen and two for the ladies of the Freshmen Class, of $5 and $10 respectively, for excellence in declamation and reading.

The Trustees have decided to locate as feeders to the institution an academy at Houlton, on the condition that $35,000 shall be raised; also at Hebron, if an endowment of $50,000 is made; also at Gorham, if $50,000 is raised. Of the latter sum the Trustees of the Seminary have already subscribed $10,000, and Col. Frederick Robie $1,000. The total amount of money to be raised for the feeding academies is $100,000, to which Governor Coburn adds $50,000 more, which goes to the Waterville Classical School. Gardner Colby of Boston gives $500 to Hebron Academy. Rev. A. R. Crane of Hallowell was appointed Financial Agent to raise the needed funds.

The degree of A. B. was conferred upon the graduating class. The degree of A. B. out of course was conferred on Nathan W. Blanchard of San Francisco, class of 1855, John F. Moody of Hebron, class of 1867, and Charles Rendall Whidden, Jr., of Calais, class of 1870.

The degree of A. M. in course was conferred on Wm. Libbey, class of 1871, and D. N. Hamlin of same class. Honorary degree of A. M. upon A. J. Billings of Freedom, Dr. Atwood Crosby of Waterville, Nathan A. Luce of Augusta.

The concert by the Beethoven Quintette Club of Boston in the evening was followed by the President's levee, which closed the exercises.

HEALTH AND DISEASE.

How to Preserve the one and avoid the other.

Dr. A. D. Bullock,

A Regular Practitioner of Providence, R. I., will give FIVE FREE LECTURES in CITY HALL,

On FRIDAY & MONDAY EVENINGS, July 24 & 27, at 8 o'clock.

The first lecture will be on

1. The Laws of health. How to preserve full health until advanced age. Popular errors on the Subject. Medication, etc.
2. The Blood and its diseases. Scrofula, Erysipelas, Dyspepsia, Tuberculosis, Rheumatism, and Neuralgia.

DR. BULLOCK will remain at the BANGOR HOUSE for two weeks, from the 23d inst., where he will give special attention to the treatment of all chronic affections of the Throat, Chest and Kidneys.

Special Office Hours.

From 9 to 12 A. M., Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Lung Diseases. 2 to 3, Diseases of the Eye and Ear. 3 to 5, devoted to the treatment of the ordinary and surgical diseases of women, dropsical, renal and nervous diseases. 7 to 9 P. M., Blood Diseases.

Chest examined by Spirometer and Stethoscope, the Blood by Microscope. The fluids of the body chemically analyzed.

CHEST DISEASES—ASTHMA CONSUMPTION AND HEART DISEASE.

Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Bullock was the first to introduce into Rhode Island these now popular remedies for Asthma and Consumption. He combines with oxygen (the vital principle of atmospheric air,) the various sedatives, stimulants and alteratives usually prescribed for the stomach. By his method they are vaporized and thrown into the Air Passages and Lung Tissue where they meet directly the existing difficulty.

By the use of this method, Asthma, always so formidable as a disease, yields readily, and almost any one suffering by it can be cured. So, likewise, with Consumption in the first and second stages. As a remedial agency, it has no equal. So say the ablest Physicians in this country and Europe.

KIDNEY DISEASES

In the department of Renal diseases, now so prevalent, Dr. Bullock has had a large experience. His prescriptions have been, and are now being used extensively by Physicians and by thousands of people who are recovering their health, who were supposed to have some incurable affection. As the originator of that most popular and effective medicine called "NEPHRITICUM" he claims to be more fully represented in this specialty than any other physician. In the department of genito-urinary diseases he has had large experience and unusual success; and to those diseases he gives special attention.

CHRONIC DISEASES.

Dr. Bullock treats Neuralgia in all its varied forms, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Spinal Diseases, Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Chronic Lesions and Nervous Affections of the Bladder, Prostitis, Uremic Deposits, Scrofula, Varicose Ulcers of the Extremities, Rupia, Eczema, Syphilitic Taint, Exhausted Vitality, Heart Disease, Inflammation of the Liver, Spleen and Gall Ducts, Dyspepsia and Consumption.

And his methods are such that he gives but little medicine, and those prepared by himself exclusively.

TESTIMONIALS.

THE CHURCH UNION, published in Providence, said in its issue of July 10th, 1874: "We have known Dr. Bullock personally for several years. He is thoroughly educated, competent and successful as a practitioner. He has had one of the largest suburban practices in this State, and his success has been something really marvellous. Every one almost, in the towns of Hopkinton and Richmond will endorse this statement of the editor, while multitudes in that city, who were formerly his patients, are glad of his return to the old stamping ground.

THE GREAT SCANDAL!

MRS. TILTON'S STATEMENT!

A SOLEMN DENIAL OF GUILT!

THE LETTERS CONCOCTED BY TILTON!

The Destroyer of his own Home!

REVELATIONS OF HATRED AND DUPLICITY!

MR. BEECHER'S STATEMENT IS RECEIVED—MRS TILTON'S AND MOULTON'S STATEMENTS.

New York, July 23. General gratification is expressed this morning on the reading of Beecher's denial. The Times states that the Beecher Committee was in session four hours yesterday afternoon and evening. It is expected that Mr. Moulton will submit his statement to the Committee this week, which it is said will be the decisive testimony ... Mrs. Tilton is also preparing a statement and will furnish it to the ... in a few days with authority for its publication if they deem it advisable ... general denial of the charges ... evidence of Tilton's in... which she will base her claim for ...

New York, July 23—Evening. The following ...

STATEMENT OF MRS. ELIZABETH R. TILTON.

... know the sorrows of the last ... struggles and pains I had daily ... myself to bury and forgive, makes ... duty, as called forth by the statements of my husband, the sad ... my life. Besides, my thought of ... the Master contradicts this act of ... use of the perversion of my ... almost compels me now to stand ... himself delivers. Yet I see in ... an urgent call and privileges ... which I shrink not. To reply in detail ... twenty two articles of arraignment, I ... at present, yet when called ... to each and all of them, I ... hesitate to do so. Suffice it for my ... now that I reply to one or two of the ... charges.

... SLANDERS—HIS HATRED OF BEECHER.

... the feigned sorrow of my husband's compulsory revelations, I solemnly ... that ... before the Woodhull publication I knew him by insinuation and direct ... to have repeated to my very near ... friends the substance of these ... which shock the moral sense of the community at this day. Many times, ... that certain persons had ... of him, he has sent me to chide ... and then and there I ... he had been before me with his calumnies against myself, so that I was speechless. This reiteration in his statement that had persistently striven to hide these ... facts is utterly false, as his hatred to Mr. Beecher has existed these many years and the determination to ruin Mr. Beecher has been the one aim of his life.

HUSBAND'S PERFIDY—CATHERINE OF GAUNT.

Again, the perfidy with which the holiest ... a wife ever offered has been recklessly ... in this publication, reaches well ... sacrilege, and added to this, the en... the early scandal of Mrs. Woodhull ... make my own words condemn me ... most cunningly my let... the reading of "Griffith ... Had Mr. Tilton read the pure ... of Catherine he would have seen ... myself besides it as near as any ... may affect an ideal, but it was ... and not the incidents of fiction ... to which I referred, Her's ... criminal act or thought. A ... with her's I had made to Mr. Tilton in telling of my love to my friend ... Pastor one year before and I now add ... notwithstanding all misrepresentation and anguish of soul, I owe to my ... and friendship with Mr. Beecher ... other human instrument that encouragement in my mental life and growth toward the Divine nature which enables me to walk daily in a lively hope of the life beyond.

THE CHARGES DENIED—LETTERS EXTORTED DURING SICKNESS.

The shameless charges in Articles 7, 8 and ... fearfully false in each and every particular. The letter referred to in Mr. Tilton's ... paragraph was obtained from me by im... and by representation that it was ... for him to use in his pending difficulty with Mr. Bowen. I was then sick ... death, having suffered a miscarriage ... four days before. I signed what ... prepared without knowledge or un... its import. The paper I have ... and do not know what statement ... contained. In charge is a letter of mine ... Mr. Francis Moulton is quoted ... that I never desired a separation or ... advised by Mr. or Mrs. Beecher to leave my husband. I reply that the letter was of Mr. Tilton's own concocting which he induced me to copy and sign as my own, an act ... in my weakness and mistaken thought ... help him I have done too often during ... unhappy years.

THE HOME DESECRATED BY TILTON.

The implication that the harmony of the home was unbroken until Mr. Beecher entered it as a frequent guest and friend, is a lamentable satire upon the household where he himself, years before, laid the corner-stone of free love and desecrated its altars up to the time of my departure, so that the atmosphere was not only Godless, but impure for my children. And in this effort and throe of agony, I would fain lift my daughters and all womanhood from the insidious and diabolical teachings of these latter days. His frequent efforts to prove me insane, weak minded, ... of mean presence, all rank in the history of heartlessness, selfishness and falsehood, having its climax in his present endeavor to convince the world that I am, or ever have been, unable to distinguish between innocent and a guilty love.

SOLEMN ASSEVERATION OF INNOCENCE.

In summing up the whole matter I affirm myself before God to be innocent of the crime laid upon me; that never have I been guilty of adultery with Henry Ward Beecher in thought or deed, nor has he ever offered to me an indecorous or improper proposal. To the further charge that I was led away from my home by Mr. Beecher's friends and by the advice of a lawyer, whom Mr. Beecher had sent to me, and who in advance of my appearing before the committee arranged with me the questions and answers which are to constitute my testimony before the committee, I answer that this again is untrue, having never seen the lawyer until introduced to him a few minutes before the arrival of the committee by my step-father, Judge Morse. And further in reply I submit my action before the committee and my separation from my husband.

TREACHERY—THE BACON LETTER.

The publication of Mr. Tilton's letter in answer to Dr. Bacon I had not known or suspected when on Wednesday evening he brought home the Golden Age and handed it to me to read. Looking down its columns I saw right well with blinding eyes that he had put into execution the almost daily threat of his life that he "lived to crush out Mr. Beecher," that "the God of Battles was in him," that he "had always been Mr. Beecher's superior," and all that lay in his path, wife, children or reputation, if need be, should fall before this purpose. I did not read it. I saw enough without reading. My spirit rose within me as never before.

"Theodore," I said, "tell me what means this quotation from Mr. Beecher? Two years ago you came to me at midnight saying:—'Elizabeth, all the letters and papers concerning my difficulties with Mr. Beecher and Mr. Bowen are burned, destroyed, and don't you betray me, for I have nothing to defend myself with.'" "Did you believe that?" said he.

"I certainly did, implicitly," I said. "Well," said he, "let me tell you they all live; not one is destroyed."

THE WIFE AROUSED.

If this was said to intimidate it had quite the contrary effect. I had never been so fearless nor seen so clearly before with whom I was dealing. Coming to me a little later he said, "I want you to read it. You will find it a vindication of yourself. You have not stood before the community for five years as you now do." Raised still further by the wickedness hid behind such a mask, I replied: "Theodore, understand me; this is the last time you will call me publicly to walk through this filth. My character needs no vindication at this late hour from you! There was a time when, had you spoken out clearly and manfully for me, I would have been grateful, but now I shall speak and act for myself. Know also that in the future if I see a scrap of paper referring to any human being, however remote, if it seems to me that you might use or pervert for your ends, I will destroy it."

"This means battle on your part, then," said he.

"Just so far," I replied. I write this because these words of mine he has since used to my harm.

SELF-DEFENCE.

The next morning I went to my brother and told him that now I had decided to act in this matter, that I had been treated by my husband as a nonentity from the beginning, a plaything to be used or let alone at will, that it had always seemed to me that I was a party not a little concerned. I then showed him a card I had made for publication. He respected the motive, but still advised silence on my part. I yielded to him thus far as to appearing in the public print, but, counselling with myself and no other, it occurred to me that, among the brethren of my own communion, I might be heard. Not knowing of the Church Committee, I asked the privilege of such an interview in the parlors of those who had always been our mutual friends, Mr and Mrs. Ovington, and then learned for the first time that the Committee would meet that night, and they advised me to see these gents, as perhaps the godliest persons I could consult. This I accordingly did. There, alone, I pleaded the cause of my husband and my children, the result being that their hearts were moved in sympathy for my family, a feeling their pastor had shared for years, and for which he was now suffering.

SEPARATION AND RECONCILIATION.

On going home I found my husband in bed. I told him where I had been and that I did not conceal anything from him as his habit was from me. He asked who the gentlemen were, said no more, rose, dressed himself and bade me "Good-bye forever." The midnight following I was awakened by my husband standing by my bed. In a very tender, kind voice, he said he wished to see me. I rose instantly, followed him into his room and sitting on the bed-side he drew me into his lap and said he was proud of me; loved me, that nothing ever gave him such real peace and satisfaction as to hear me well spoken of, that meeting a member of the committee he had learned that he had been mistaken as to my motive in seeing the committee and had hastened to assure me that he had been thoroughly wretched since his rash treatment of me the night before, etc. Then and there we covenanted sacredly our hearts and lives, I most utterly renewing my trust in the one human heart I loved.

TILTON WRITES A STATEMENT VINDICATING HIS WIFE AND BEECHER.

The next day how happy we were. Theodore wrote a statement to present to the Committee when they should call upon him, to all of which I heartily acceded. This document, God knows, was a true history of this affair, completely vindicating my honor and the honor of my pastor. In the afternoon he left me to show it to his friends. He returned home early in the evening, passing the happiest hours I had passed for years; renewedly assuring me that there was no rest for him away from me. So, in grateful love to the Dear Father, I slept. Oh, that the end had then come. I would not then have received the cruel blow which made a woman mad outright.

THE SUDDEN CHANGE.

The next morning he called upon our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ovington, and there, with a shocking bravado, began a wicked tirade, adding, with an oath and violence, the shameless slander against Mr. Beecher, of which I now believe him to be the author. This fearful scene I learned of next day. In the afternoon he showed me his invitation from the Committee to meet them that evening.

FINAL SEPARATION.

I did not then show my hurt, but carried it within. All night till early morning, reflection upon this scene at Mr. Ovington's convinced me that notwithstanding my husband's recent professions to me his former spirit was unchanged; that his declarations of repentance and affection were only for the purpose of gaining my assistance to accomplish his ends in his warfare upon Mr. Beecher. In the light of these conclusions my duty appeared plain. I rose quietly and having dressed, aroused him only to say: "Theodore, I will never take another step by your side. The end has indeed come." He followed me to Mrs. Ovington's to breakfast, saying I was unduly excited and that he had been misrepresented perhaps, but leaving me determined as before.

TILTON'S VAGARIES.

How to account for the changes which twenty four hours have been capable of working in his mind these many years past, I leave for the eternities with their mysteries to reveal. That he is an unreliable and unsafe guide, whose idea of truth loving is self-loving, it is my misfortune, in this late, sad hour, to discover.

(Signed) ELIZABETH R. TILTON.

REPORTS AS TO BEECHER'S AND MOULTON'S STATEMENTS.

District Attorney Winslow, of Brooklyn, one of Beecher's investigating committee, said to-day that Beecher's general denial had nothing to do with their inquiry, and that when he appeared before the committee every particular point in Tilton's statement would be gone over. If there was any bottom to the thing the committee were bound to find it. Other parties say that it is not possible that Beecher's or Moulton's examination will be made before Friday afternoon or Saturday. Tilton was in consultation with Moulton all this forenoon. Gen. Tracy was at Beecher's residence a short time and he is believed to be framing the pastor's reply, which is expected to be delivered to the committee Friday or Saturday.

INDIAN OUTRAGES.

IN NEW MEXICO.

St Louis, July 23. Advices from El Reto Creek, New Mexico, to July 17, say that twenty one persons—six Americans and fifteen Mexicans—have been killed between Fort Bascom and the Raton Mountains up to that time, and four hundred horses driven out of the Territory. A company of the Eighth Cavalry left Fort Union, July 17, for Dry Cimarron river, the scene of the Indian outrages.

WASHINGTON.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

New York, July 23. The Tribune's special from Washington says that the Secretary of the Treasury and Gen. Spinner are equally in earnest and determined to carry their points in the matter of Civil Service Reform in the Treasury Department. One of the appointments recommended by Spinner is Mrs. Dr. Mary Walker, whom the Secretary positively refuses to appoint.

BIDS FOR THE FIVE PER CENT. BONDS.

A large number of proposals for the whole of the balance of $179,000,000, or any part thereof of the five per cent. bonds were opened at the Treasury Department at noon to-day by Secretary Bristow and assistant Secretaries Conant and Hartley. Precisely at 12 o'clock the doors of the Secretary's office were locked, and every one excluded except his private Secretary. Gen. Bristow states he has received a number of requests from bidders, that no publication be made of their offers, and in respect to their wishes he will not give publicity to them until the awards shall have been made, which will be to-morrow, probably. The Secretary will leave here to-night for Long Branch where he will have a consultation with the President upon the subject.

THE POST'S ESTIMATES ON THE BIDS.

New York, July 23. In relation to the new loan, the Post estimates that the bids forwarded from New York representing those filed by foreign bankers for the European markets as well as those for domestic holdings, will aggregate not less than $80,000,000, and not more than $100,000,000. The large bids will come from syndicates which have been formed, the principal one representing a combination of German bankers, and to each of these bids will be attached the condition that the bidders are to have a call on the entire remainder of the loan, so that if accepted it would be to the exclusion of all others. To-day small amounts of bonds can be bought at the stock exchange a fraction cheaper than from the Treasury direct.

GENERALITIES.

The Geneva Court of Commissioners met this forenoon and proceeded to the consideration of the rules to govern the proceedings before that body.

Lieut. Moore has been ordered to Newport for torpedo service.

Secretary Robeson will return here to-night.

In the case of Rachards vs. Collector Arthur recently, decided in New York, regarding the value of the French franc, Judge Shipman having decided in favor of importers, an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States Treasury Department. Other suits involving the same questions are pending. The whole amount involved is about $250,000.

The President has recognized Edwin M. Forbes as commercial agent of the Dominican Republic, at Boston.

ARKANSAS.

THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION.

New York, July 23. A Little Rock despatch says the Congressional Committees yesterday examined various parties. Nathaniel Hill testified that the returns in 1872 having been found against Baxter, were sent back into the State and fixed up, to give Baxter a majority. Sheriff Gallagher testified to Johnson giving him returns to take back to the county clerk to have them changed. Judge Bennett testified to the capture and release of Judge Searle and himself during the last trouble. He also testified that he never was consulted relative to the written opinion in the quo warranto case, which was different from the verbal decision in which he was concerned.

TYPO'S STRIKE.

Cincinnati, July 23. The Typographical Union, at a meeting yesterday, deprecated the use of violence towards men who take the places they have vacated.

THE BOOK TRADE.

Put in Bay, July 23. In the Book Trade Convention, yesterday, resolutions were adopted that the discounts heretofore allowed to ministers, teachers and libraries, on the ground that they are common workers with us in the distribution of knowledge, be as follows: Not exceeding twenty per cent. for school books to professional men and teachers, and on goods sold in quantities to libraries and large buyers outside the trade; also that a committee be appointed with power to establish and conduct a semi-annual book-trade sale or fair, at which publishers shall offer their books, during the period of the sale, at the special terms of the trade.

KANSAS.

A SHOCKING AFFAIR.

St Louis, July 23. A man named Hall Grubb committed a gross outrage upon a woman at Worthens, Kansas, on Tuesday. Yesterday he was sent to jail at Troy, in charge of a constable and guard. They were followed by an excited crowd of men and women on foot and mounted, armed with guns and revolvers, and carrying ropes, and demanding revenge. When about a mile from Worthens Grubb sprang from the wagon and attempted to escape, but was immediately riddled with bullets and instantly killed. One of the crowd, named McPherson, was mortally wounded by a shot fired at Grubb, and a woman residing near Worthens, but not connected with the mob, was thrown from her horse and fatally injured.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE ILL-FATED CITY OF BOSTON—SUPPOSED NEWS OF HER LOSS.

New York, July 23. A bottle was picked up by a man on the beach near Key West, Florida, recently, and given to a son of S. M. Parsons of Wall street, who is residing in Florida. The following message was found in the bottle:—

STEAMSHIP CITY OF BOSTON.

To all whom this message may come—That I, the undersigned, a passenger on the ship, write the following statement:—

On Sunday night, a heavy storm arose; 12 30 increasing, 1 20 all hopes lost, 2 o'clock, going down.

(Signed) JOHN CASWELL,
London, England.

The City of Boston sailed hence for Liverpool, January 25th, 1870, and has never been heard of since. At the same time the above was found a board was also found a short distance away with some pencilling on it which could be deciphered, reading: "We have now taken to the boats as our last resort." There was a date on the board and the board was headed City of Boston. The above may all be a foolish hoax, as many other bottles have been found since the steamer was lost, but there is no question as to its being found as stated.

CRIME.

Assistant Alderman Michael Fay on Saturday night last assaulted a boy named Thomas Colby who called at his place for the purpose of collecting money due him. The boy defended himself by firing three shots at Fay, one of which lodged in his cheek. Fay was arrested yesterday for the assault and made a counter charge against young Colby. Justice Sherwood dismissed the complaint against Fay and locked the boy up for defending himself in default of $2,000 bail.

Maxey's Fort, well known to travellers on the Sound boats as the habitation of a crazy man on Blackwell's Island, was burned this morning.

A cash-box containing $8,000 worth of notes and negotiable paper, but only $60 in money, was stolen from Isaac's sponge store yesterday noon. The money was extracted, and the box, with all the papers, was sent back in the afternoon by an expressman.

A suit has been commenced against the sureties of the late Symmes Gardner, for alleged defalcation of $400,000 from the Government when he was a quartermaster. It will be remembered that Gardner is dead, and among his effects were found $152,000 of bonds lost in a horse-car by Mr. Graham in 1871.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

The Spanish steamer Tomas, from Baltimore for Liverpool, was towed in here by the steamer Belgic having broken her condenser and main pump. No other damage.

At a meeting of the Police Commissioners, to-day Inspector George W. Walling was appointed new Superintendent of Police.

W. H. Postley, chief clerk of the railroad postal service between this city and Boston, died in Jersey Sunday. He had been in the Post Office since 1844.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

ROCHEFORT.

New York, July 23. Rochefort is still in London, and it is probably a safer place for him than any continental city, and is more convenient for most purposes than any except Brussels, which is out of the question.

SPAIN.

GENERAL NEWS.

Madrid, July 22. Senor Castelar delivered a speech to-day, in which he declared that the programme of his party demanded the establishment of the conservative Republic. Extreme Republican opinions only divided them from the Liberals, who were their best allies.

Senor Sans has been appointed Minister of Spain to Mexico.

The Carlists shot nearly every tenth man of the volunteer battalions captured at Menes. Gen. Dominguez is in command of the Republican army in Catalonia. Gen. Paris will soon take the field in Central Spain with 14,000 men and thirty guns.

THEFT AND ARREST. Christian Sommer and Mortimer Sternberg, seamen on board the schooner Glide, now lying in this harbor, made complaint to the City Marshal yesterday that a fellow sailor, known only to them by the name of "Scotty," had stolen $17 in money, a vest, pair of pants, shirt and other clothing from them, and disappeared. They gave an accurate description of the thief, and suspecting he had left on the Boston steamer the City Marshal telegraphed the description to the Belfast City Marshal, asking him to arrest such an individual if found on board when the boat reached there. A despatch was returned saying that the fellow was found on board and arrested, and City Marshal Bolton will go down on the steamer City of Richmond to day to bring him up for trial.

FINE PAINTING. We saw yesterday at the office of Messrs. Cutler, Thatcher & Co. a fine picture of Messrs. Palmer & Johnson's mill, painted for the senior member of the last named firm by Mr. Geo. Cutler, an amateur artist of much promise. The picture was painted from sketches made on this side of the river, and exhibits great fidelity to nature. The broad Penobscot occupies the foreground and above the masts of the vessels loading at the mills tower the high bluffs of the Brewer side; in the distance among the trees appears the spire of the church at Brewer village, and along the bank, on the line of the Bucksport & Bangor Railroad, a train of cars is painted—a little "ahead of time," but by a couple of months only, as the road is fast approaching completion. Altogether the picture is a fine work of art, and speaks volumes for the talent and skill of the artist.

THE NEW SHIP CONQUEROR, which arrived at this port yesterday and is now at Eagle wharf, near High Head, is the largest vessel, we believe, which ever visited Bangor, and is, withal, a superb specimen of marine architecture. She was built at East Boston by Smith & Knowles, for Elijah Williams & Co, and is commanded by Capt. Knowles, formerly of the famous ship Agenor. She is 1021½ tons register, of good model for sailing and carrying, is built of the best materials and is liberally equipped. She has built lower masts and bowsprit, wire standing rigging, chain topsail sheets and ties, bowsprit shrouds, martingale guys and stays, Manila hemp running rigging, double topsail yards fore-and-aft, but nothing above royals; in other words, she has not any skysails. She is consigned to Isaac M. Bragg Esq., of this city, and will be loaded with deals for A. F. & D. McKay of Liverpool by Messrs. Cutler, Thatcher & Co. and D. R. Stockwell & Co. of this city. The Conqueror will be sheathed with yellow metal at Liverpool, and will probably proceed thence to San Francisco or the East Indies.

DISPOSAL OF THE STEAMER KATAHDIN ASSAULT CASE. It will be remembered that on the 7th of July of last year a gentleman named Robert M. Morrison was violently and brutally assaulted on board the steamer Katahdin, while she was lying at her dock in Boston, by a party of the workmen employed on board. So severe was the assault that Mr. Morrison was nearly killed, one of his eyes being completely destroyed. Two of the assailants, Frank Judge and James J. McGrath, were subsequently arrested in this city by detectives Ham and Wood, but through the efforts of the then Mayor were released in default of an Executive requisition, which was afterward obtained, and by authority of Governor Perham they were again arrested and taken to Boston for trial. After a while they were tried and convicted, and the case went to the Supreme Court on exceptions. These exceptions being overruled, the men were brought into court Wednesday afternoon, and after arguments by counsel, were each sentenced to one year and six months in the House of Correction. Just after sentence was pronounced Detective Ham received a telegram from this city asking that the disposition of the case be postponed, on account of the death of McGrath's father, but the despatch came too late.

The report some days since that the respondents were simply fined was incorrect.

HIBERNIANS' EXCURSION. The annual excursion of the Hibernian Mutual Benevolent Society was made yesterday to Fort Point on the tug C. B. Sanford and barge Fairy of the Wave. The party numbered between 500 and 600, but though crowded was very orderly and quiet, not the least disturbance of any kind occurring during the day. At Fort Point the excursionists enjoyed themselves in various ways, but the main interest centered in the bateau race for prizes of $15 and $10. The course was a mile and a half in length—three quarters of a mile out and return—and two bateaux were entered, the "Bon Homme Richard," manned by Richard Moore (Captain), Daniel Casey, Timothy Sullivan, Patrick Sullivan, James Courcey and John Daley, and the "Sooner Boy," manned by Louis Ketchum (Captain), Mitchel Pool Susup, Peter Necolar, Francis Mitchell and Joseph Orson. The race was won by the first named crew who came in half a length ahead in five minutes, and took the first money. The judges were James Nickerson for the "Bon Homme Richard," and John Burke for the "Sooner Boy," and the umpire and starter was Dennis Tracy. The three-legged race was productive of no end of fun. The contestants ran in couples, one leg of each man being tied to the leg of his mate, so that each couple had but three legs to run with. So long as they kept step they ran along all right, but all of them got heavy falls. Dennis Tracy and Daniel Gallagher were the winners. The foot race of 200 yards was won by Stephen Trowell, who took the first prize, the second being won by George Potter. The throwing of the hammer was a fine display of athletic skill, and Rev. Father Murphy bore off the palm, throwing a 10-lb. sledge with a 26-inch handle sixty-eight feet. Owen Dugan was next, throwing the same hammer fifty-one feet. The excursionists arrived home about ten o'clock in the evening, much pleased with the day's sport. The music of the Bangor Cornet Band added much to the enjoyment of the excursion.

THE TREAT'S FALLS DAM.

PROPOSITIONS FROM THE BANGOR WATER-POWER COMPANY.

The Committee of Twenty-one, appointed some time since by the citizens to take into consideration the feasibility and practicability of supplying the city with water from the Penobscot by a dam at Treat's Falls, held a meeting at the office of Wilson & Woodard, last evening, which was well attended. Hon. G. K. Jewett presided, and, in the absence of the Secretary, Mr. White, F. A. Wilson, Esq., was chosen Secretary pro tempore. The records of the last meeting were read and approved, after which Mr. Wilson explained that the Bangor Water Power Company, in the hope that the question of building a dam at Treat's Falls would be early and favorably decided upon, had, after due consultation, drawn up a series of propositions, which he then presented, premising, however, that they were only general in their terms, and that the details were hereafter to be arranged in a more definite manner. The following are the

PROPOSITIONS.

The Bangor Water Power Company submit to the City of Bangor the choice of either of the three following propositions:

FIRST PROPOSITION.

The company will build a solid and substantial dam of wood, well ballasted and secured, across the Penobscot river, at Treat's Falls, fourteen feet above high-water mark, with a stone lock, and maintain it forever. They will give the city sufficient water for a city of of 40,000 inhabitants, with a priority in the use of the water power to an extent necessary to raise the water into a reservoir on Drummond Hill, with all the space and land needed for the water-wheels and machinery for that purpose, and all required rights-of-way over their lands, including the rights-of-way for pipes leading to the city; the company to receive as compensation the bonds of the city, bearing seven per cent. interest, and running thirty years, for $300,000, to be delivered, one-half when the proposed works are half done, and the other half when they are completed.

SECOND PROPOSITION.

If the city will itself build such a dam as is described in the first proposition, the company will transfer its stock, franchise and charter to the city, and also procure the gratuitous transfer to the city of so much of the Brown, Parker, Treat, Spratt and Drummond farms as shall average five hundred feet from high-water mark, if needed for canals, etc., reserving the privilege of removing the buildings now on the premises.

THIRD PROPOSITION.

The company will build such a dam as is described in the first proposition, and will itself construct the necessary machinery for raising water into a reservoir on Drummond Hill, and construct such a reservoir, with the main-pipes leading into and through the city, retaining the ownership of the same, and being entitled to such water-rates from individuals as may be established by legal authority. As a compensation, the city shall furnish to the company its bonds bearing seven per cent. interest, and running thirty years, for $150,000, to be delivered, one-half when the dam is half completed, and one-half when the dam is completed. For the use of the water for all municipal purposes, the city shall pay the company at the rate of $2[illegible],000 per annum. As an anticipation of this annual payment, in part, the city shall loan to the company its bonds for $200,000, at seven per cent. interest, and shall retain the annual payment of $20,000, to be applied, first, to meet the interest on said bonds, and, next, as a fund to sink the principal of said bonds, and the company shall not receive into its own treasury said $20,000 of annual compensation until the interest and principal of said bonds are in this way fully provided for; and to secure this provision the company shall give to the city a first-mortgage on all its works and all its real-estate necessary to the occupation and use of the same. Material and machinery of water-works to be first-class.

These several propositions are all made subject to the condition that the company is able to make satisfactory adjustments of the damage to arise from flowage.

The propositions were favorably received by the members of the committee present, although, in the discussion that ensued, a number of points were brought up which will require to be settled before the propositions come before the people. On motion, it was voted that the propositions be referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. A. G. Wakefield, Michael Schwartz, George W. Ladd, John S. Ricker and Franklin A. Wilson, who were instructed to confer with the Water Power Company to procure modifications of some of the minor points in the propositions, and also to confer with the committee of the City Council appointed some time since.

The meeting was then adjourned to Saturday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, at the same place.

NOTES FROM CASTINE.

CASTINE, July 22.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

These July days send yearly an ever increasing multitude of visitors to our sea shore towns and villages, peopling them in many instances almost anew, and infusing a life and vigor among their hitherto quiet populations of which in times past they had never dreamed. While at Mt. Desert and other places of note there is a busy coming and going, a continual tide of travel and an ever-changing population, in these quiet towns families in advance make all necessary arrangements for the "summer stay," and there is seemingly only the addition of another people, generally of refinement and cultivation, kind and generous in all their ways, entering oft-times fully and freely into the interests and labors of those whom they visit, and mutually blessing and being blessed. This quiet old town of Castine, from which I write, famous for its past history, and destined to be famous in the future as a summer resort, is fast filling up with those who seek the very best places for a few weeks of life at the sea-shore.

Castine has often been spoken of in the past as having more wealth than any other town in the State in proportion to its population; but this notoriety no longer belongs to her, and the "lucre" left here by those who flee from the city to enjoy her quiet retreats and her beautiful scenery falls into many a grateful hand. A large and lucrative business once centered here, that of supplying fishermen with all they needed for vessel and for family, which is now distributed among towns by no means possessing the advantages for holding this trade which Castine can claim.

For the present, then, there is seemingly no outlook for prosperity to this old town but the attractions she possesses as a summer resort. These have only to become known to the capitalist to make her territory sought for for this purpose. Already has an effort been made to obtain that part of the peninsula of most value for the purpose. Its failure caused deep disappointment to its people, who sorrow over it as the loss of a great opportunity. Doubtless the day is not far distant when there shall not be found a man among its holders of real estate who will not sacrifice every personal consideration for what is universally believed to be for the good of all.

Communication with the opposite side of the bay is now fully established by the steamer Pioneer, and the local travel proves larger than was anticipated, promising a successful route. There is still lacking, however, a much desired arrangement by which connection can be had with steamers going up river, saving the long tedious ride by stages to your city.

VISIT.

BANGOR POLICE COURT

BEFORE JUDGE GOODENOW.

Thursday, July 23. Barney Breen was arraigned on charge of obtaining money under false pretences by passing an old and worthless State bank bill to purchase some small article and receiving his change [illegible] lawful money. He was found guilty, and fined $10 and costs. He was also fined $5 and costs for drunkenness, and being unable to pay either fine was committed to jail.

THE GREAT SCANDAL:

TILTON CROSS-EXAMINED — INCONSISTENCIES EXPOSED—EVIDENCE OF MERCENARY MOTIVES—OTHER TESTIMONY TAKEN BY THE COMMITTEE—MRS. TILTON'S STATEMENT OF HER RELATIONS WITH BEECHER—EXPLANATION OF THE LETTERS AND APOLOGY.

The New York papers publish with Tilton's statement the following important report of his cross-examination and a synopsis of testimony of other witnesses, throwing light upon the subject.

The cross-examination of Mr. Tilton, on Monday evening, is said to have been quite searching, and to have drawn out certain facts which may be of service to the defense. At all events the report of the Committee will be awaited with very great confidence by those of Mr. Beecher's friends who have been familiar with the history of this affair from the outset. Already they do not hesitate to affirm that there is not in the whole statement of Mr. Tilton any evidence beyond his own declaration, of actual and definite impropriety on the part of either Mr. Beecher or Mrs. Tilton, that he offers, and has no written proof. It is further claimed by some who have carefully examined the document, that in paragraph VI Mr. Tilton expressly shows that he knew, long before the alleged evil event, that his wife was experimenting with herself and testing her feelings for Mr. Beecher, and this and the following paragraph indicate that Tilton, in a most absurd way, encouraged such improprieties by accepting plausible explanations.

A comparison of paragraphs 8 and 10 of Mr. Tilton's statement, it is said, shows that he kept the alleged confession of his wife a secret for six months and made no complaint whatever to Mr. Beecher or any one else. The cross-examination elicited the fact that he mentioned it first to Henry C. Bowen on Dec. 25, 1870, the confession having been made on July 3, 1870. Also that his reason for speaking was that Mr. Bowen had charged him with certain immoralities, and threatened to discharge him, as he soon after did. He told Mr. Bowen of Mrs. Tilton's confession in order to explain his own action and save his place. He then told the same thing, it is claimed, to Mr. Beecher for the purpose of inducing him to intercede with Mr. Bowen in his behalf. To Mr. Bowen he stated that there had been no infidelity on the part of Mrs. Tilton, but that a proposal made to her by Mr. Beecher had been indignantly repelled. It is also stated that Mrs. Beecher informed Mr. Bowen of the unfaithful character of Mr. Tilton, which she had learned from private sources, and that this fact probably influenced Mr. Tilton in his after course in relation to Mr. Beecher and his own wife.

It will be claimed in regard to the "apology" of Mr. Beecher, which is now for the first time made public in full; that the original is all in the handwriting of Frank Moulton, and that it is not signed by any one; that the last sentence is merely a memorandum and no part of the letter, but is written at a distance below the rest. The paper was not dated at all, the date of Jan. 1st, 1871, given by Mr. Tilton in his letter to Dr. Bacon, being a fiction. It was written, it is said, on Dec. 31st, 1870, about an hour after sunset in a room where there was no gas. Some one who has seen the original describes it as almost illegible, showing plainly that the writer could hardly see even when he began to write. Before it was finished the room was so dark as to make it impossible for any one to read the letter. The line written by Mr. Beecher is a wretched scrawl, indicating that it was written when he could hardly see the paper, and when he could not read what had been written. It is further said that the letter itself was not dictated to Mr. Moulton by Mr. Beecher, but that the former took down detached sentences of remarks of considerable length which Mr. Beecher in an excited state of mind had been making. The true cause of Mr. Beecher's state of mind is said to have been not any improper relation with Mrs. Tilton, but that she in her extreme religious enthusiasm had confided in his judgment in regard to religious matters so completely, and respected him so thoroughly, that it amounted to a love for him which did for a time interfere with her love for her husband, but which Mr. Beecher did not dream of encouraging. When he found how strong her feeling for him was, he regarded himself as wrong in having allowed such sentiments, platonic though they were, to arise on her part.

The character of Catherine Gaunt, to which Mrs. Tilton refers in one of her letters to Mr. Tilton, was that of a perfectly pure woman, never unfaithful to her husband even in thought. This it is said, throws light upon the whole subject, the fact being that the relations between Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton were those simply of an extreme religious and filial affection. Her repentance was for unconsciously allowing this to supersede her husband's influence.

In regard to other letters of a more explicit character and a later date, the evidence before the Committee shows that they were written at a time when Mr. Tilton had compelled her return after a temporary separation by abducting her children. Letters of his were submitted proving the clandestine method in which this was done, and other evidence brought forward to show that the time she was so entirely under her husband's power, or influence or both, that in his presence she denied statements she had previously made, and which subsequently she reiterated, with the explanation that she was utterly unable to resist the will of her husband. Evidence of her husband's jealousy, of the fact that he had assigned each of his children a different father, and has charged her with frequent and almost continual infidelities, has also been submitted to the Committee, as well as a large mass of information as to her character and the high standard which she has uniformly placed on the duties of a wife. It is also noteworthy that Mrs. Beecher has been before the Committee and presented numerous letters from Mrs. Tilton to Mr. Beecher, which were given her when received by the latter. There was nothing in them, she said, which could not be properly written by any lady to whom Mr. Beecher was a pastor. They exhibit strong affection and confidence, but she never dreamed of being displeased with them.

It was found in investigating the matter that it has been Mr. Beecher's uniform practice to have all the mail which reaches the house opened and prepared for him by his wife, she answering or leaving for him to answer, according to their importance. The letters which are directed to the pulpit or his study in the church are also opened by a subordinate, and the envelopes are removed, the letters being left open on the desk, and those which reach the Christian Union office are opened there by a subordinate. It seems to the Committee impossible that an intrigue should have been successfully carried on by one who had thus placed all the sources by which he could be addressed in the hands of others.

During the cross-examination Mr. Tilton stated that he helped his wife prepare a statement of Mr. Beecher's offense toward her, in which it was set forth as a mere verbal proposal to her, to which she could not listen, that by his advice she signed this, which he afterward showed to many of his friends, and until lately asserted the fault therein charged to be the only offense.

The letters in paragraphs 11th and 18th are believed to have been dictated by Mr. Tilton, though signed by her, and others of the remaining ones are thought to bear the marks of his thought, while many of the rest are regarded as of little or no importance.

Mr. Tilton's character as a witness will now be examined, as well as his statement, and there are not a few who firmly believe that Mr. Beecher will emerge from the smoke without the smell of battle upon him, and without a stain upon his character.

Mr. Halliday stated, in reply to questions of a Tribune reporter, that he wished only to say that the statement of Mr. Tilton would not shake for an instant the faith of the people of Plymouth Church in their pastor.

THE LADDER OF ANGELS.

BY LUCY LARCOM.

When Jacob slept in Bethel, and there dreamed
Of angels ever climbing and descending,
A ladder, whose vast height of splendor seemed
With glory of the Ineffable Presence blending,
The place grew sacred to his reverent thought,
He said "Lo! God is here. I knew it not."

And wherefore did they fold their wings of light,
Of swiftness and of strength, those creatures holy,
And up to dawn celestial through earth's night,
Like mortals step by step, go toiling slowly?
Was it to teach themselves the painful way
Man's feet must take to their familiar day?

Or was it that the traveller, laid asleep
On his stone pillow with an inward seeing,
Should learn how mightiest spirits reach the steep
And glorious post-bilities of being—
Not by a visionary flight sublime,
But up the foot-worn ladder-rounds of time?

Foretold they his descent, the Son of God,
Who humbly clothed himself in vestments mortal
And so, encumbered with our weakness trod
With us the stairway to his Father's portal,
To life whose inner secret none can win
Save by surmounting earthliness and sin?

The patriarch's vision—not for him alone
Lighted that golden mystery his slumber,
Beneath it slept a world of souls unknown,
When God set up a sign, no man may number
Its meanings infinite. Who readeth reads
And finds the interpretation that he needs.

Wherever upward, even the lowest round,
Man by a hand's help lifts his feebler brother,
There is the house of God and holy ground,
The gate of heaven is love: there is no other
When generous act breaks from unselfish thought,
The Lord is with us, though we know it not.

This ladder is let down in every place
Where discords ebb as virtues their aspire,
Our human lineaments gain angel grace,
Leaving behind low aims and base desire
Deserts of earth are changed to Bethel thus
The vision is for every one of us.

APPLETON'S
AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA

New Revised Edition.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type and illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotyped plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

Albany, March 16th, 1874.

In accordance with the foregoing correspondence, and also upon the invitation of the Insurance Committee of the Assembly of the Legislature of New York State, the Lecture, therein referred to, will be given on Wednesday evening, April 1st, in the Assembly Chamber.

[From the Albany Argus.]

DR. LAMBERT UPON "BIOMETRY."

The crowded state of our columns in yesterday's issue compelled us to defer notice of Dr. Lambert's address before the committee of the Legislature, on Wednesday evening. The house was crowded by an attentive audience, including members of the medical fraternity, the bar and the clergy, and other professional men. The scope of the lecture was to present, in some of its leading principles and features, the subject of "Biometry," or the laws of hereditary descent, and the signs and indications of longevity, as a science, positive, practicable, and of very great value in its application to all the varied relations of life. He gave practical illustrations referring to strangers in the audience, of the signs and indications of longevity—and stated very clearly and succinctly the laws and principles upon which the science rests. The practical fact is noticed by all, of hereditary tendencies, were shown to have relation to the inherent capabilities of living. These conditions can all be measured, and a judgment upon them by one who has become even ordinarily expert may be relied upon—especially in determining the proper premiums to be charged in insuring lives. Referring to the "experience" tables in use by the Insurance Companies, their disagreement with each other and their inconsistencies as assumed data were pointed out. It was urged that the only safe and just basis was found in following the teachings of Biometry, and rating each risk upon its own characteristics. The safety as well as the equity, of this was shown in the fact, as an illustration, that in the company with which he is connected (the American Popular, which originated the plan, the death losses have been for the last year only between three and four per thousand persons, while some companies have lost as high as twenty-four, and many over ten per thousand—the varying rates of loss being in themselves proof of the unreliability of the tables, and of the general average system of insuring all lives of the same age at the same rate. Life insurance, he said, is simply protection of the family in case of the death of its head, and its simple and common sense method is found in the payment, year by year, of the natural premium representing the mortality belonging properly to that year,—the "Term Life Increasing Premium,"—at low cost, without surplus, without "dividends," without speculation, without deception.

Dr. Lambert was appropriately introduced by Dr. Carpenter, of the Assembly, and was listened to throughout his long address with marked attention.

No other company in the world applies these principles, or gives the advantage of a lower rate of premiums to those possessed of the natural inheritance of long life.

The only questions with them are: sound health and the general average mortality of a given age.

The AMERICAN POPULAR, by its gradation of risks, insures each according to the individual characteristics of the risk.

It fixes the premium rate accordingly without any special reference to the age.

Its premiums are based therefore upon the actual risk of the individual, charging him only the cost of carrying his risk.

This is JUST, EQUITABLE and SAFE.

Eight years' experience has proved these facts.
